

Public Speaking Masterclass with James O’Loughlin

If you make speeches as part of your job one thing is certain - each time you speak, everyone listening will be assessing how you deliver your message.

How many times have you listened to a speech that seized your attention and made you want to hear more?

How many times have you been so bored by one that you wanted to bash your Blackberry into your forehead?

What sort of speaker are you?

You may want to arrange a masterclass with James O’Loughlin in order to improve your ability to grab and hold your audience’s attention, speak with confidence authority and clarity, and to communicate what you need to communicate in a clear and interesting way that is a pleasure to listen to.

James is the host of The New Inventors on ABC-TV, a long time presenter on ABC local radio, a former stand-up comedian and lawyer, and someone who has given hundreds of speeches to corporate audiences and conferences.

He can help you to

- work out the most effective way to communicate your key messages
- motivate your staff in a speech
- speak in a relaxed and confident manner that will make your audience WANT to listen to you
- control nervousness
- use stories as well as numbers to reach your audience

Masterclasses can be conducted as either 90 minute or 3 hour sessions and can be tailored to you personally and the types of speeches you deliver.
